Conference of District Commissioners with State Motor Vehicle Official Clears Up Doubts on Licenses.

The District Commissioners and E. A. Baughman, commissioners and E. A. Baughman, commissioner of motor vehicles, of Maryland, yesterday cleared up all doubt and misunderstandings regarding the operation of motor license laws in both the District and in Maryland. It was decided to permit owners of cars licensed in other States the same rights accorded citzens of the District rights accorded citzens of the District and Maryland; that owners of cars licensed in both the District and some other State be allowed the same privileges in Maryland as the owners in that leges in Maryland as the owners in that

COTTON MARKETS.

New York, Aug. 3.—Notwithstanding heavy realising at times the tone of the cotton market was strong today. A report of Secretary Hester, of the exchange at New Orleans, placing the world's consumption of world cotton ending July 31, at 14,800,000 bales and temperatures ranging to 109 at 0.00 klahoma with the average maximum range over the State about 102 degrees, were factors.

The high temperatures in the Southwest caused a good deal of uneasiness. Some of the biggest operators were active buyers. Up-town interests also purchased large amounts. Strength at Liverpool also helped the market here. The close was steady at a not advance of 21a30 points. Spot at Liverpool was quiet at an advance of 20 agood corop.

some few who took advantage of this fact with the result that now the letter of the law is being enforced. Officers are noting the numbers of machines that remain longer than fifteen minutes in the restricted parking districts of the city They are also on the alert to apprehend violators of the speed regulations and those who insist on running by street cars that have come to a stop to either take on or discharge passengers.

H. W. Robertson, president of the Au burn and Pathfinder Sales Company, who this week have been holding a private automobile show in their new quarters, expressed himself yesterday as more than pleased with the attendance so far this week. Not only have there been large crowds in the evening, but during the daytime there have been numerous visitors. Tonight has been set aside for the chauffeurs as chauffeurs night and the local organization has been extended an invitation to attend. All not members of the association, but who are operating cars as a profession, are likewise invited Things look bright for an automobile race meet to be held at a local track on Labor Day. All that remains to be done is to sign the lease for the track and send out the entry blanks. Those behind the movement have been in communica-tion with several drivers of fast cars, who hail from Philadelphia and New York. All have agreed to file their entry York. All have agreed to me their entry blanks just as soon as the promoters are in shape to receive them. In addition to the racing car events it is planned to hold some stock car races, open only to ocal entries.

They should not be allowed to play too vio-lently or to become overheated. Indigestion and colds must be guarded against It must be remembered that all infec-tious diseases are communicable and that all communicable diseases are preventable. A child that is suspiciously ill should immediately be isolated and kept under observation until the true nature of its malady is recognized, even though nothing of a serious character develops. As its name indicates, it is a disease of infancy or early childhood, involving the nervous system and resulting in partial or complete paralysis of one or more parts of the body. It is not a new disease, as many believe, but its outbreak in epidemic form is more or less recent, and it is this fact that has called such worldwide attention to it. There are always some cases of infantile paralysis in ever community of children, and these are known as sporadic; that is, they crop out singly now and then. But when a great many are stricken down at the same time -involving during its prevalence in 1907 In the city of New York 2,500 cases—it beomes an epidemic startling alike to the public and to physicians.

One fact of extreme interest brought out during this outbreak is that the disease loses some of its characteristics during an epidemic and attacks adults. also, unlike a great many diseases that appear in epidemic form, it is not con-fined to one class of society, but reaches those living under the best hygienic conditions. It is also of much shorter duration, and usually appears in hot weather when the rainfall is low. For these reasons, many physicians are of the opinion that we are dealing with another dition when it breaks out in large num-
